Somehow God set the parameters of my story and to some extent allows me to author with him my steps AND he has not authored the sin of my life. Could my SSA have a purpose that is not destructive? Could God use for good what others intended for evil? The evil intention of others -> they want me dead, enslaved to sin, and to profit from my life, to exploit me.

- Make me feel worthless, outsider, afraid, small, alone – and drawn in many different directions, never enough for one, a lonely wanderer, no intimacy, never known, self-loathing, that is the evil.
- To find love, to be known and seen and not rejected, to be devoted, to desire to serve and be served, to find rest, to be satisfied, to understand depravity in the context of God's love, to seek good, to glorify God, to grow into the future that he intended for me.
